JoAnn- had a concern for the water system in Power City. Their wells were drying up. They had pumps failing due to lack of water. The pumping level was dropping at 10 feet per hour. It only lasted 45 minutes before the well was dry. She said they were told the well wouldn't recover. The City had been able to use a water truck to fill the water tower, but that they would need to dig deeper because they had maxed out the depth of the well.
